Häfele recognised again in 2014 Trends Top 30 Australian Homes awards

For the second year in a row Trends Publishing has recognised Häfele as an outstanding supplier in the annual Trends Top 30 Australian Homes awards.

The buildings in question are two beautifully designed pieces of residential architecture as featured on trendsideas.com.

Trends Top 30 Australia projects are chosen on the basis of excellence in design, function, product specification and style. Take one look at the Perth home, as visualised by architect, Leon House in Catching the breeze and that's exactly what you see – the perfect balance of all four elements.

Whereas, the project featured in Hidden benefits by interior designer, Kim Duffin, places more focus on the owner's desire for modern furniture-style kitchens as seen in Europe.

"It's an honour to once again be recognised in the Trends Top 30 Australian Homes", says Häfele MD, Peter Farrugia. "For me, it reaffirms the Häfele vision to keep pushing ourselves in pioneering intelligent functionality that simplifies daily life.

"The two homes we contributed to couldn't be more different. Each had a specific brief and problem to solve. What's pleasing though, is that we were able to provide a fantastic solution in both cases.

"And that's going to be music to the ears of every architect, builder and fitter we work with," says Farrugia.
